

FALL SENTENCED TO YEAR AND FINED

AUNT LUCIA WITNESSED BY PACKED HOUSEProduction Brings Hearty Approval—Goeller Is Stellar
In Feature Role.

The opening performance of the Circleville Athletic Club's home talent stage production, "Aunt Lucia," went over with a bang at the Grand Opera House Thursday evening when a packed auditorium witnessed the show. Not a single seat in the house was empty when the first curtain raised at 8:15, and not a single seat was empty until the show had ended.

The show is being put on again this evening and they say there isn't a seat available except those in the gallery.

Was it good? Just ask anyone who was there last night if that show wasn't all it was cracked up to be and then some.

There were the babies of the first, second and third grades; there was the glee club, with its songs and cheers; there were two child dancers, both excellent performers; there were those who took actual parts in the drama; and last of all there were those incomparable flappers, Circleville's own.

SHOW OPENS

The show opened with a special baby pageant in which there were 100 tots of the first, second and third grades of school. Miss William Haecck sang "Take Me Back to Babyland" and with pretty co-ordination on the parts of the children, won much applause from the large audience.

The glee club of Boola-Boola college led by Karl Herrmann then sang several songs and cheered as though they were at a football game.

One of the prettiest scenes of the evening followed when George (Carl Wallace), Dick (Jack Heeter), Betsy (Doris Peters) and Molly (Mary Mae Haswell) went through a love scene.

Miss Haswell sang "Love Song" and her rendition was so good she was called back for an encore.

Then began the show proper. Lucetta Wakefield, a wealthy spinster of Florida, an aunt to Betsy, was to come to Boola-Boola college as a feature guest during a banquet to be held that evening in honor of the biggest football game of the year the next day.

Aunt Lucia, as she was called, was worth many millions of dollars and a special favor to her might mean a donation to the old school with which to build a new football stadium.

Charles Goeller as Jerry, a college lad, was told by several of his classmates that he would make a good looking woman and that just to see, he should dress in a woman's clothes. He did and when he came into the room he was mistaken for Aunt Lucia.

GOELLER INCOMPARABLE
Goeller was incomparable as Aunt Lucia Wakefield.

George was in love with Betsy. Aunt Lucia's niece, and Dick was in love with Molly. When Betsy and Molly started to tell Aunt Lucia some of their love secrets, George and Dick became desperate and almost ruined Aunt Lucia.

Collins (Joe Lynch), Dick's father and the Big Butte and Egg Man from Omaha (C. G. Chaffin), thought that since Aunt Lucia was running around loose and with millions of dollars at her command they might try their hands at marrying her.

Proposals from these two men to Aunt Lucia were actual screams.

Another of Aunt Lucia's numerous suitors was Prof. Gaddis (Paul Kirwin). Gaddis chased Lucia through the corridors of the college continuously trying to get a kiss but Lucia was always a little too fast for him and his rheumatism.

Aunt Lucia, by circumstances and Jerry, the college boy, in his right position, became real peevish when his sweetheart, Ethlyn (Esther Drum), despaired of trying to find Jerry and went out to capture the college sheik for the banquet that night.

Several times he tried to escape his predicament by confessing to the college prexy, Dr. Seemore (Luther Bower), but each time he would be halted by the appearance of someone in the room.

A big rally was being held with all the students, the members of (Turn to Page 3, Please) Prohibition.

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 1.—(INS.)—After 13 years of prohibition the voters of Nova Scotia today were on record as favoring the lifting of the ban on liquor and allowing its distribution and sale through government agencies.

Latest returns indicated that the wets had rolled up a huge majority which may reach 30,000 in the. Plebiscite taken on the question. Returns from outlying districts are still missing, but these are not sufficiently numerous to alter the result.

In the last Plebiscite on the question, taken ten years ago, the dries hung up a majority of some 55,000 votes. Since then, however, there has been much agitation for the return of liquor.

Ontario's overwhelming endorsement of government controlled liquor sales and a desire to escape from evils of bootlegging also were regarded as major factors in turning the tide from dry to wet.

In all the larger cities, the vote against prohibition was something like five to one. Amusingly belying its name, sober Island indicated the trend of the voting in the early returns by recording a vote of 214 to 6 against prohibition.

With Nova Scotia again in the ranks of the wet provinces, only Prince Edward Island, of all the Dominion of Canada, remains dry.

Last Seven Weeks.

PORT WASHINGTON, WIS., Nov. 1.—(INS.)—Search was begun today for missing bodies and possible survivors lost following a collision between two lake steamships which rolled the S. S. Senator over on its side and plunged its captain and six others to their deaths in Lake Michigan's chill waters yesterday.

The ore freighter Marquette crawled into Milwaukee's harbor last night, a gaping hole smashed in its bow.

Surrounded by a dense blanket of fog, the Senator and Marquette collided. The Senator plunged to the bottom within ten minutes leaving 28 members of the crew struggling in the water.

The radio of the Marquette, flashing out an S. O. S. after the crash, gave the alarming report that it had lost track of the Senator's wreckage and feared the entire crew was lost. Shipping tons of water through the gash torn in its prow, the Marquette lowered boats and picked up three men.

Sixteen men were picked out of the water by the tug Delos Smith. Others were snatched from the water by smaller craft.

This was the fourth major disaster on Lake Michigan in seven weeks and brought the total of lives to more than 100.

Of the 28 members of the Senator's crew, 18 are known to have been rescued, seven, including Capt. George Finch and John Nielson, first mate, perished, according to survivors.

Mrs. Minnie Gormley, cook and wife of Steward Mathew Gormley, is believed to have drowned.

REPORT BORER
AT OHIO RIVER

European corn-borer infestation has been reported in 105 new Ohio townships, says Dr. W. H. Larimer of the United States Bureau of Entomology, according to a report just received by the Pickaway Co Farm Bureau.

The borer's advance, however, this year was about normal, and due to an unfavorable season for the pest there was only a slight increase in the average abundance for the entire Great Lakes area. Michigan reported an actual increase, although the borer was found in 59 new townships.

In Ohio losses in yield estimated at from 10 to 30 per cent were observed in a few fields, and traces of injury were discovered in more fields than ever before.

The borer reached his farthest south point in the United States when he was discovered in Gallia-co., Ohio, along the Ohio river.

Our dealers are assisting by accepting reductions in their discounts."

STILL SEARCH
FOR BODY OF
MISS BENFORDFather Raises Reward To $100—Many False Reports
Are Heard.

The reward for the discovery of the body of Miss Carrie Benford, 50, who committed suicide by jumping into the Scioto river Thursday, has been raised from $50 to $100 by her father, B. F. Benford.

Although men in eight boats with grappling hooks spent Thursday afternoon and most of the night, dragging the bottom of the Scioto river, the body of Miss Benford had not been recovered at press time Friday. Although no one actually saw her end her life in the river, there is no doubt but that she took her life Thursday morning. She had been in ill health for years and recently is reported to have become melancholy.

Following the discovery and positive identification of her hat, coat and umbrella Thursday on the bridge, the search for the body was begun immediately, and a reward offered by her father, B. F. Benford.

As dark came on, the Ohio Utilities Co., erected a large flood light on the bridge to aid the searchers in the boats below. They worked until 10:30 p. m.

A false report late Thursday that the body had been recovered, was said to have been started by a colored child, who ran up from the river yelling that, the body was floating on the river. The news was quickly spread and an ambulance sent to the railroad river bridge where the body was supposed to have been seen.

Since the river directly below the bridge has been so thoroughly searched, it has been suggested that Miss Benford left her coat on the bridge and then walked into the river from the bank, at some point farther distant.

The Scioto bridge was crowded all afternoon Thursday, and Deputy Sheriff Miller Fissell had a difficult time, keeping the bridge and road clear for traffic. The crowd did not lessen until the men in the boats gave up their gruesome search and went home to bed.

The dragging of the river was started again at daybreak.

Mrs. Oscar Root of Logan-st., is in University hospital Columbus, suffering from serious injuries which she received Wednesday night in an automobile accident north of Lancaster. Her husband, who was injured at the same time was a patient at the hospital but has been discharged.

There were five passengers in the car and all received injuries. They were Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Nichols and Mrs. Van Radcliffe, all of Obetz Junction, in addition to the Roots who were taken to Columbus in a Canal Winchester ambulance.

The motorists were all on their way home by way of the Lockbourne-rd. after attending a Hallowe'en party at Pickerington. The accident happened when the automobile plunged over an embankment after barely missing a bridge north of Lancaster.

Hallowe'en

E. L. Daley, supervisor local grade schools, addressed the Rotary club on "The Story of Hallowe'en" at their weekly meeting Thursday.

He went back to the beginning of the holiday when the ancient peoples celebrated a day of the year in somewhat the same way. He told of Pomona, the Roman goddess of fruit, lending the harvest element of Hallowe'en, the Celtic day of "summers' end," was a time when spirits, mostly evil were abroad. The church festivals of all saints and all souls coming at the same time of the year, the idea of the return of the dead; and the Teutonic May Eve assemblage of witches brought its hags and their attendant beasts to help celebrate the night of Oct. 31.

SAY PANTAGES TO

Bond Was Fixed He Was Going To Mexico.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.—(INS.)—Alexander Pantages, convicted of an attack upon 17-year-old Eunice Pringle, was accused today by Prosecutor Buron Fitts of having chartered an airplane to rush him out of the country into Mexican territory.

Pantages was scheduled to appear today before Superior Judge Fricke for sentencing to San Quentin penitentiary for a term of from one to 50 years.

"We knew that Alexander Pantages had an airplane ready and waiting in San Diego to hop him across the border out of the United States and beyond our reach. That is why he was placed under guard from the moment the jury took his case last week," was the sensational charge made by Fitts.

In making the charge, Fitts declared it would be the main reason for his opposition to any attempt to free the millionaire showman on bail pending appeal for a new trial.

"Pantages will stay in the county jail if I have anything to say, after what my investigators discovered," the district attorney declared.

WILL APPEAL
VERDICT TO
HIGH COURTFirst Time Sentence Ever Passed on Cabinet Member For Felony.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(INS.)—Albert B. Fall, ex-secretary of the interior, was sentenced today to a year in prison and fined $100,000 for accepting from E. L. Doheny another $100,000 after he had leased the California oil baron the Elk Hills naval reserve. The jury that tried the ex-cabinet officer said it was a bribe.

The prison sentence, however, was somewhat of the synthetic variety, Justice William Hitz announcing from the bench that if Fall were compelled to go to prison at this time he would have suspended that part of it.

Inasmuch as Fall's attorneys are planning to appeal the sentence to the supreme court, which automatically acts as a stay, and in view of Fall's pitiable physical condition, the court decided to tack on the prison sentence, even though it probably never will be served.

It will stand in the record against him, however, for all time—the first prison sentence ever pronounced upon a cabinet officer for commission of a felony.

The fine was only one-third of the amount which the court could have imposed upon the aged defendant. The law specifies that the fine could have been three times the amount of the bribe, or $300,000, but the court only assessed the amount of the bribe, $100,000.

Justice Hitz, in passing judgment, called attention to the fact that the maximum penalty provided in the statute—three years in prison and a fine three times the amount of the bribe. He said:

"If this case had come into court under normal physical conditions, in my judgment it would require the maximum penalty. It did not, however. What I saw for myself, what the physicians reported and the fact the jury recommended mercy has convinced me of that. Therefore, I am going to sentence Mr. Fall to one year in prison and fine him $100,000.

The Judge then explained that were the sentence applicable immediately he would suspend the imprisonment on his own motion, but that because the case was going to a lengthy appeal he would let his judgment stand with only that softening remark in the record.

Fall, who received the sentence sitting down, appeared in much better physical condition than he has during the progress of his trial, although still accompanied by a doctor and a nurse, he sat erect and listened attentively to Hitz's remarks.

No show of emotion was discernable on his face when judgment was imposed.

The former cabinet officer's two daughters, Mrs. C. C. Chase and Mrs. Jettie Elliott, were in the front row of spectators. Mrs. Elliott bowed her head and wept softly. Their mother, who had left them to take her place beside Fall, received the sentence as stoically as her husband.

Frank Hogan, chief of defense counsel, immediately noted an appeal and asked about bond. Hitz decided to continue Fall on his present surety.

Prior to handing down sentence, Justice Hitz had denied a motion for new trial which had attacked his charge to the jury as biased and unfair, and another motion for arrest of judgment based on the contention that Fall had been subjected to double jeopardy through being tried for bribery—this latter because he already had been acquitted of conspiracy in connection with the same transaction.

Once more timid residents may creep out of their cellars, and take an interest in life for Hallowe'en is over and the day of the soap artist is done for another year. Persons who left home to escape the noise of the revelers, returned to find their porch swings up in the trees, and their shutters leaning against the neighbors' front doors.

Hallowe'en stunts seem still to last a week, but in the old days there used to be a doorbell night,

STILL SEARCH
FOR BODY OF
MISS BENFORD

Father Raises Reward To $100—Many False Reports Are Heard.

The reward for the discovery of the body of Miss Carrie Benford, 50, who committed suicide by jumping into the Scioto river Thursday, has been raised from $50 to $100 by her father, B. F. Benford.

Although men in eight boats with grappling hooks spent Thursday afternoon and most of the night, dragging the bottom of the Scioto river, the body of Miss Benford had not been recovered at press time Friday. Although no one actually saw her end her life in the river, there is no doubt but that she took her life Thursday morning. She had been in ill health for years and recently is reported to have become melancholy.

Following the discovery and positive identification of her hat, coat and umbrella Thursday on the bridge, the search for the body was begun immediately, and a reward offered by her father, B. F. Benford.

ERECT LIGHTS

As dark came on, the Ohio Utilities Co., erected a large flood light on the bridge to aid the searchers in the boats below. They worked until 10:30 p. m.

A false report late Thursday that the body had been recovered, was said to have been started by a colored child, who ran up from the river yelling that, the body was floating on the river. The news was quickly spread and an ambulance sent to the railroad river bridge where the body was supposed to have been seen.

Since the river directly below the bridge has been so thoroughly searched, it has been suggested that Miss Benford left her coat on the bridge and then walked into the river from the bank, at some point farther distant.

The Scioto bridge was crowded all afternoon Thursday, and Deputy Sheriff Miller Fissell had a difficult time, keeping the bridge and road clear for traffic. The crowd did not lessen until the men in the boats gave up their gruesome search and went home to bed.

The dragging of the river was started again at daybreak.

LOCAL WOMAN
BADLY HURT

Mrs. Oscar Root In University Hospital Suffering Injuries In Wreck.

Mrs. Oscar Root of Logan-st. is in University hospital Columbus, suffering from serious injuries which she received Wednesday night in an automobile accident north of Lancaster. Her husband, who was injured at the same time was a patient at the hospital but has been discharged.

There were five passengers in the car and all received injuries. They were Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Nichols and Mrs. Van Radcliffe, all of Obetz Junction, in addition to the Roots who were taken to Columbus in a Canal Winchester ambulance.

The motorists were all on their way home by way of the Lockbourne-rd, after attending a Hallowe'en party at Pickerington. The accident happened when the automobile plunged over an embankment after barely missing a bridge north of Lancaster.

SAVED

Life still flickered in the body of this seaman when he was carried ashore by rescuers who had picked him up near the scene of the sinking of the steamship Wisconsin off Kenosha, Wis. The terrible battering of the water and the intense cold had nearly stricken him from the roster of the living.

Rotary Club Hears Story of Hallowe'en

E. L. Daley, supervisor local grade schools, addressed the Rotary club on "The Story of Hallowe'en" at their weekly meeting Thursday.

He went back to the beginning of the holiday when the ancient peoples celebrated a day of the year in somewhat the same way. He told of Pomona, the Roman goddess of fruit, lending the harvest element of Hallowe'en, the Celtic day of "summers' end," was a time when spirits, mostly evil were abroad. The church festivals of all saints and all souls coming at the same time of the year, the first of November, contributed the idea of the return of the dead; and the Teutonic May Eve assemblage of witches brought its hags and their attendant beasts to help celebrate the night of Oct. 31.

ATTEMPT ESCAPE

Attorney Says That When Bond Was Fixed He Was Going To Mexico.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.—(INS)—Alexander Pantages, convicted of an attack upon 17-year-old Eunice Pringle, was accused today by Prosecutor Burton Fitts of having chartered an airplane to rush him out of the country into Mexican territory.

Pantages was scheduled to appear today before Superior Judge Fricke for sentencing to San Quentin penitentiary for a term of from one to 50 years.

"We knew that Alexander Pantages had an airplane ready and waiting in San Diego to hop him across the border out of the United States and beyond our reach. That is why he was placed under guard from the moment the jury took his case last week," was the sensational charge made by Fitts.

In making the charge, Fitts declared it would be the main reason for his opposition to any attempt to free the millionaire showman on bail pending appeal for a new trial.

"Pantages will stay in the county jail if I have anything to say, after what my investigators discovered," the district attorney declared.

"We learned that there was an airplane waiting for Pantages in San Diego," Fitts continued. "We had information to the effect that he planned to hurry from here to San Diego, take the plane and hop across the border to Mexico. From Mexico he might have fled with little fear of timely interference from us."

MAN RELEASED

George Speakman was released from the county jail Friday after serving a 10 day sentence for a violation of the National Guard law.

E. B. Brown and family of Charleston, W. Va., and Mrs. J. W. Wilhelm of Dayton, O., returned home after visiting their mother, Mrs. H. A. Brown, N. Court-st.

VERDICT TO
HIGH COURT

First Time Sentence Ever Passed on Cabinet Member For Felony.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(INS.)—Albert B. Fall, ex-secretary of the interior, was sentenced today to a year in prison and fined $100,000 for accepting from E. L. Doheny another $100,000 after he had leased the California oil baron the Elk Hills naval reserve. The jury that tried the ex-cabinet officer said it was a bribe.

The prison sentence, however, was somewhat of the synthetic variety, Justice William Hitz announcing from the bench that if Fall were compelled to go to prison at this time he would have suspended that part of it.

Inasmuch as Fall's attorneys are planning to appeal the sentence to the supreme court, which automatically acts as a stay, and in view of Fall's pitiable physical condition, the court decided to tack on the prison sentence, even though it probably never will be served.

It will stand in the record against him, however, for all time—the first prison sentence ever pronounced upon a cabinet officer for commission of a felony.

The fine was only one-third of the amount which the court could have imposed upon the aged defendant. The law specifies that the fine could have been three times the amount of the bribe, or $300,000, but the court only assessed the amount of the bribe, $100,000.

Justice Hitz, in passing judgment, called attention to the fact that the maximum penalty provided in the statute—three years in prison and a fine three times the amount of the bribe. He said:

"If this case had come into court under normal physical conditions, in my judgment it would require the maximum penalty. It did not, however. What I saw for myself, what the physicians reported and the fact the jury recommended mercy has convinced me of that. Therefore, I am going to sentence Mr. Fall to one year in prison and fine him $100,000.

The Judge then explained that were the sentence applicable immediately he would suspend the imprisonment on his own motion, but that because the case was going to a lengthy appeal he would let his judgment stand with only that softening remark in the record.

Fall, who received the sentence sitting down, appeared in much better physical condition than he has during the progress of his trial, although still accompanied by a doctor and a nurse, he sat erect and listened attentively to Hitz's remarks.

No show of emotion was discernable on his face when judgment was imposed.

The former cabinet officer's two daughters, Mrs. C. C. Chase and Mrs. Joett Elliott, were in the front row of spectators. Mrs. Elliott bowed her head and wept softly. Their mother, who had left them to take her place beside Fall, received the sentence as stoically as her husband.

Frank Hogan, chief of defense counsel, immediately noted an appeal and asked about bond. Hitz decided to continue Fall on his present surety.

Prior to handing down sentence, Justice Hitz had denied a motion for new trial which had attacked his charge to the jury as biased and unfair, and another motion for arrest of judgment based on the contention that Fall had been subjected to double jeopardy through being tried for bribery—this latter because he already had been acquitted of conspiracy in connection with the same transaction.

FORECAST COLD
OHIO WEATHER

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 1.—(INS)—Ohio is in for a mild cold snap, weather observers said here today. Temperatures will drop about 20 degrees and hover around the 40 mark. The cold weather will continue over the week-end.

Herschel J. Funk of W. Main-st was called to Mt. Sterling Friday by the illness of relatives.

NAME 5 FOR SENATE POST

Cooper Says He Has Been Offered Job As Burton's Successor.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 1.—(INS)—Names of five Ohioans were circulated freely in state political circles today as possibilities to succeed the late Senator Theodore E. Burton to his unexpired term in the United States Senate.

They are: Postmaster General Walter F. Brown of Toledo, who is rumored as President Hoover's choice; Col. Carmi A. Thompson of Cleveland, who stepped out of the senatorial race in 1928 in favor of Senator Burton; Roscoe C. McCulloch of Canton, chairman of the state utilities commission; E. W. Edwards of Cincinnati, banker and friend of the governor, and William H. Boyd, Cleveland attorney.

Reports that Governor Cooper was considering himself as a possibility for the post—that he would resign, turning the governorship over to Lieut. Gov. John Brown, and step into the senatorial post himself—was definitely "spiked" by the state executive as he entertained here early today for Columbus. He admitted, however, that he had received proposals to that effect.

"I was elected to be governor by the people of this state, and I propose to keep that contract," Gov. Cooper said.

When asked if he had received any word from President Hoover regarding Senator Burton's successor, the Governor said: "I think all the president wants is a man favorable to the national administration."

At a conference held last night between Gov. Cooper, Postmaster General Brown, State Finance Director Harry D. Silver and Joseph R. Nutt, national Republican treasurer, it was believed the selection was virtually settled. Gov. Cooper told reporters early today he would definitely make up his mind within the next 24 hours and announce his decision within three days.

In its previous flights, no attempt was made to push the huge craft to its top speed.

Mrs. Lawrence Goeller underwent a successful operation Thursday at Mt. Carmel hospital Columbus. Her condition is reported as good.

FIVE YEARS OF SUFFERING ENDED
BY SPINAGO

Nothing Is Impossible To This
New Super-Medicine, Built
Upon a Practical Formula.

To some, the stories of those who have found health through the use of Spinago may sound impossible. Those skeptics do not believe that it is possible for any medicine to accomplish such feats.
And their doubts are excusable because many of Spinago's performances seem miraculous. But the countless residents of Circleville and the vicinity bear witness to Spinago's worth; they are anxious for others to know what it has done for them in order that other sufferers may also find the way to health and happiness.

But, think a minute. After one takes into consideration the formula of this new medicine, do these accomplishments seem impossible? It is to be remembered that Spinago is a departure from the medicines in use up to the present time in that its formula has been developed along practical lines through years of research. First of all, its main ingredient is a food in concentrated form, Spinach. Spinach is prescribed in practically all diets and is recognized as one of the most valuable of foods for enriching and purifying the blood, for strengthening the system and for supplying the necessary iron to the body. But in order to derive the greatest benefits from spin-ach, it is necessary to consume many pounds of it as it is seen on the dining table. However, the manufacturers of Spinago have taken fresh spinach and treated it by a special process to drive out all the moisture and useless elements, leaving a dry, brown powder which contains only the health giving, body building elements of Spinach. Every bottle of Spinago contains this concentrated powder in sufficient quantity to do the work of many pounds of green spinach.

MRS. J. M. MARSHALL

Added to this most important ingredient is an assortment of carefully selected roots, herbs and barks of well known medical value such as sarsaparilla, poke root, gentian, cascara, mandrake, prickly ash, etc.

Based upon such a formula, is it surprising that stomach, liver and bowel complaints cannot stand up against its powerful action? Is it a miracle when indigestion, rheumatism, dyspepsia, neuritis and rheumatism are driven away by its attack? Is it amazing to hear statements made by such happy former sufferers as Mrs. J. M.
Marshall, 154 York St., Circleville, whose testimony follows:
"Five years ago I had an abscess in my abdomen which kept me bedfast for 15 weeks.
seven and one-half of which were spent in the hospital undergoing three operations. Since that time I have been suffering from a chronic case of stomach trouble.
Pain and a heavy feeling in the upper part of my stomach, belching and sour stomach after each meal caused me to suffer intensely. An almost unbearable pain extended around the right side to just under the shoulder blade. I was unable to get any relief from physicians and became desperate as I suffered most of the time, couldn't eat, couldn't sleep and lost weight daily.

"I am greatly thankful to the friend who recommended Spinago to me, because this medicine has worked wonders for me. It has eliminated my pains driven away that horrible suffering. I experienced for so long put a stop to my dizzy headaches and made me feel better than I have for years. So, all thanks to Spinago, the only medicine which brought me relief."

Spinago is sold and guaranteed
in Circleville by The Mykrantz Pharmacy, 107 N. Court St., and by all other good druggists in this section.—Adv.

INTERSECTIONAL CONTESTS TO FEATURE WEEK'S GRID BILL

Notre Dame's Ramblers Travel To Georgia Tech For Tough Encounter—Florida Goes To Harvard—Ohio State, Pitt
To Be Big Feature—Chicago Meets Princeton In East.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Intersec-tionalism will have its fling tomorrow in perhaps the greatest and most significant program of geographic play in the sport of intercollegiate football ever has known. For instance, the nation's adopted team, Notre Dame, will go to Atlanta to play one of the southern bellwethers, Georgia Tech. Another of the latter, Florida, will come north to meet Harvard, one of the best up this way. Pittsburgh, highly touted for the national title, will receive a Big Ten guest, Ohio State, undefeated to date. Another Big Ten invader, Chicago, will daily with an ex-member of the Big Three, Princeton, while Villanova is coupled with Oglethorpe, the Army with South Dakota, Boston College with Duke, Colgate with Hampton-Sidney and Washington with Carnegie Tech out in St.
Louis.

TOUGH TO PICK
It may be difficult to pick the losers in a program like that. In fact, the railroads may turn out to be the only winners when it is all over.

This see-America tendency is one of two major features of the afternoon. The other is the fact that it will be "it" day to a lot of championship pretenders like Dartmouth, Minnesota, Purdue, Tennessee and Tulane. If, for example, Dartmouth gets by Yale tomorrow in the bowl, it still will face three tough ones in Brown,
Cornell and the Navy.

In the Big Ten, too, much of real moment should develop from the meeting of Minnesota with Indiana, fresh from its tie with Ohio State; also those of Illinois with Northwestern and Purdue with Wisconsin, although the latter looks the part of a kick in the pants for the league leaders.
The Badgers haven't scored in a month.

The Tulane-Georgia game is the biggest in the south, with Tech occupied with Notre Dame and Florida trying to reclaim a previous defeat the last time it was up here playing Harvard. This par is good but unfortunately neither will be at its best tomorrow. The No. 2 game down south will have been the bell-ringer in other years, Alabama versus Vanderbilt. Both still have a chance in the conference but apparently they are not the teams they used to be. Tennessee should breeze with Alabama Poly, likewise
North Carolina with North Carolina State.

DARTMOUTH-YALE
Dartmouth, of course, will get its "time trial" of the year to-date with Yale, sensational winner over the Army, while the Big Six leaders, Missouri and Nebraska, will go to bat with Kansas Aggies and Kansas respectively. Utah's meeting with Brigham Young also will have a significant bearing on the disposition of the Rocky Mountain title.

As for Minnesota and Purdue,
they are to play conference rivals in Indiana and Wisconsin respectively and, while neither has any actual push-overs the rest of the way, a victory tomorrow will mean that both are on the verge of top ranking, sectionally and nationally.

One couldn't call it an "It" day
for Notre Dame, Pittsburgh, Southern California, Utah, Texas and Illinois. In fact, every day is an "It" day with most of them and, unfortunately, they have a lot of their big moments still coming up.

However, there will be much decided before tomorrow afternoon becomes an evening. Notre Dame must prove that it can play them all, here and there, and live to rejoice in the fact. The Irish took a licking from Tech the last time but this is a different year and so are the ball teams. The Southwest might well decide its championship on the result of the Southern Methodist-Texas game and, out on the coast, California and Southern California will name the new conference champion between them, with the Trojans naturally favored.

Nothing Is Impossible To This New Super-Medicine, Built Upon a Practical Formula.

To some, the stories of those who have found health through the use of Spinago may sound impossible. Those skeptics do not believe that it is possible for any medicine to accomplish such feats. And their doubts are excusable because many of Spinago's performances seem miraculous. But the countless residents of Circleville and the vicinity bear witness to Spinago's worth; they are anxious for others to know what it has done for them in order that other sufferers may also find the way to health and happiness.

But, think a minute. After one takes into consideration the formula of this new medicine, do these accomplishments seem impossible? It is to be remembered that Spinago is a departure from the medicines in use up to the present time in that its formula has been developed along practical lines through years of research. First of all, its main ingredient is a food in concentrated form, Spinach. Spinach is prescribed in practically all diets and is recognized as one of the most valuable of foods for enriching and purifying the blood, for strengthening the system and for supplying the necessary iron to the body. But in order to derive the greatest benefits from spinach, it is necessary to consume many pounds of it as it is seen on the dining table. However, the manufacturers of Spinago have taken fresh spinach and treated it by a special process to drive out all the moisture and useless elements, leaving a dry, brown powder which contains only the health giving, body building elements of Spinach. Every bottle of Spinago contains this concentrated powder in sufficient quantity to do the work of many pounds of green spinach.

MRS. J. M. MARSHALL

Added to this most important ingredient is an assortment of carefully selected roots, herbs and barks of well known medical value such as sarsaparilla, poke root, gentian, cascara, mandrake, prickly ash, etc.

Based upon such a formula, is it surprising that stomach, liver and bowel complaints cannot stand up against its powerful action? Is it a miracle when indigestion, rheumatism, dyspepsia, neuritis and rheumatism are driven away by its attack? Is it amazing to hear statements made by such happy former sufferers as Mrs. J. M. Marshall, 154 York St., Circleville, whose testimony follows:

"Five years ago I had an abscess in my abdomen which kept me bedfast for 15 weeks, seven and one-half of which were spent in the hospital undergoing three operations. Since that time I have been suffering from a chronic case of stomach trouble. Pain and a heavy feeling in the upper part of my stomach, belching and sour stomach after each meal caused me to suffer intensely. An almost unbearable pain extended around the right side to just under the shoulder blade. I was unable to get any relief from physicians and became desperate as I suffered most of the time, couldn't eat, couldn't sleep and lost weight daily.

"I am greatly thankful to the friend who recommended Spinago to me, because this medicine has worked wonders for me. It has eliminated my pains, driven away that horrible suffering I experienced for so long, put a stop to my dizzy headaches and made me feel better than I have for years. So, all thanks to Spinago, the only medicine which brought me relief."

Spinago is sold and guaranteed in Circleville by The Mykrantz Pharmacy, 107 N. Court St., and by all other good druggists in this section.—Adv.

INTERSECTIONAL CONTESTS TO FEATURE WEEK'S GRID BILL

Notre Dame's Ramblers Travel To Georgia Tech For Tough Encounter—Florida Goes To Harvard—Ohio State, Pitt To Be Big Feature—Chicago Meets Princeton In East.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
NEW YORK, Nov. 1—Intersectionism will have its fling tomorrow in perhaps the greatest and most significant program of geographic play in the sport of intercollegiate football ever known. For instance, the nation's adopted team, Notre Dame, will go to Atlanta to play one of the southern bellwethers, Georgia Tech. Another of the latter, Florida, will come north to meet Harvard, one of the best up this way. Pittsburgh, highly touted for the national title, will receive a Big Ten guest, Ohio State, undefeated to date. Another Big Ten invader, Chicago, will daily with an ex-member of the Big Three, Princeton, while Villanova is coupled with Oglethorpe, the Army with South Dakota, Boston College with Duke, Colgate with Hampton-Sidney and Washington with Carnegie Tech out in St. Louis.

TOUGH TO PICK
It may be difficult to pick the losers in a program like that. In fact, the railroads may turn out to be the only winners when it is all over.

This see-America tendency is one of two major features of the afternoon. The other is the fact that it will be "if" day to a lot of championship pretenders like Dartmouth, Minnesota, Purdue, Tennessee and Tulane. If, for example, Dartmouth gets by Yale tomorrow in the bowl, it still will face three tough ones in Brown, Cornell and the Navy. In the Big Ten, too, much of real moment should develop from the meeting of Minnesota with Indiana, fresh from its tie with Ohio State; also those of Illinois with Northwestern and Purdue with Wisconsin, although the latter looks the part of a kick in the pants for the league leaders. The Badgers haven't scored in a month.

The Tulane-Georgia game is the biggest in the south, with Tech occupied with Notre Dame and Florida trying to reclaim a previous defeat the last time it was up here playing Harvard. This par is good but unfortunately neither will be at its best tomorrow. The No. 2 game down south will have been the bell-ringer in other years, Alabama versus Vanderbilt. Both still have a chance in the conference but apparently they are not the teams they used to be. Tennessee should breeze with Alabama Poly; likewise North Carolina with North Carolina State.

DARTMOUTH-YALE
Dartmouth, of course, will get its "time trial" of the year to date with Yale, sensational winner over the Army, while the Big Six leaders, Missouri and Nebraska, will go to bat with Kansas Aggies and Kansas respectively. Utah's meeting with Brigham Young also will have a significant bearing on the disposition of the Rocky Mountain title.

As for Minnesota and Purdue, they are to play conference rivals in Indiana and Wisconsin respectively and while neither has any actual push-overs the rest of the way, a victory tomorrow will mean that both are on the verge of top ranking, sectionally and nationally.

One couldn't call it an "If" day for Notre Dame, Pittsburgh, Southern California, Utah, Texas and Illinois. In fact, every day is an "If" day with most of them.

and, unfortunately, they have a lot of their big moments still coming up.

However, there will be much decided before tomorrow afternoon becomes an evening. Notre Dame must prove that it can play them all, here and there, and live to rejoice in the fact. The Irish took a licking from Tech the last time but this is a different year and so are the ball teams. The South-west might well decide its championship on the result of the Southern Methodist-Texas game and, out on the coast, California and Southern California will name the new conference champion between them, with the Trojans naturally favored.

NAME SUCCESSOR TO WILLEBRANDT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(INS.)—The successor to Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt as the chief prohibition prosecutor for the government is G. Aaron Youngquist of Minnesota.

Announcements of the appointment of Youngquist as assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition cases was announced at the White House today. Youngquist is now attorney general of Minnesota—the same state, incidentally, that sent the author of the enforcement act, A. J. Volstead, to Washington.

Consul and Poet

John Howard Payne, the author of "Home, Sweet Home," was an actor and the writer of dramatic pieces that were played both in England and America, and his most famous song was first sung in a melodrama called "Clari; or, the Maid of Milan." He died in Tunis while he was serving as United States consul, and there he was buried. His body was later reinterred at Washington.

Buffalo Statistics

No more than an estimate can be given as to how many buffaloes there were in this country in the days when they roamed the plains. It is believed that there were 50,000,000 bison between Manitoba and the Staked Plains of Texas in 1850.

Drawing a Line

As a matter of practice we know that a line can be drawn, as we make use of drawn lines all through our lifeline. Soft, lovely hair!

The modern artist hair-dresser can do wonderful things with your hair. But all your hair-needs can not be supplied in the beauty shop. You must help at home. And that's where Danderine comes in. Danderine is so simple and easy to use. Each time you arrange your hair just put a little of this delicately fragranced liquid on your brush. As you draw it through the hair, Danderine removes excess oil, cleanses, brings out the natural color, gives your hair an amazing new lustre.

Used consistently, Danderine dissolves the dandruff, keeps the scalp comfortable and healthy; stops falling hair; helps make your hair grow long, silky and abundant. Your hair is so much easier to arrange and stays in place when Danderine is used. Waves "set" with it look nicer; stay in longer. Five million bottles used a year!

the Flappers' chorus with the most beautiful women any town has ever seen did its stuff. It was too bad.

Dressed as flappers, stage beauties, South Sea Islanders, and last of all the Bride of 1939 the act simply brought the house down. Those men who took part in the chorus were B. T. Hedges, Harry Moore, Charles Owens, M. C. Moseley, Fred Fissell, Jr., Ben Gordon, William Avis, Glen Nickerson, Wayne Hoover, Harry Steinhauser, Harry Yoakum, John D. Hummel, Harry Stevenson, Tom Gilliland, S. C. Grant, Fred Brunner, Harley Colwell and Charles L. Mack.

Two little girls, Marvina June Wallace and Betty Cooper, won much applause with their dances. Little Miss Wallace did a clog and toe dance and Miss Cooper a toe acrobatic dance specialty.

Both girls were heartily applauded. Miss Elma Lightner, director of the show, was introduced by Joe Lynch and thanked each person who had in any way aided in the success of the show. She said, "I don't know why they call this town Circleville when everyone is so much on the square."

Everyone who had a part in the show deserves much credit for its successful production.

HAVE A HEART
There are not so many shopping days before Christmas as there were when first you were asked to do your Christmas buying early, and there is no hope that the number is going to increase between now and midnight of the twenty-fourth. Nor will prices be reduced; nor will the quality of the goods now on the shelves increase. So why linger and delay?

Perhaps there are those who believe that "Do your Christmas shopping early" is a slogan devised by merchants who thought they would sell more goods if people bought early, and then took thought and discovered that there was more buying they ought to do. But while that doubtless occurred to the merchants, it was not by any means the controlling motive that inspired the shop-early propaganda which greets us annually.

The fact is, the request for early Christmas shopping came, first, chiefly from the postoffices, the express companies, the railroads and the sales and delivery people, all of whom found themselves swamped by a tidal wave that hit them suddenly and left them devastated. Some way had to be found for controlling this tide, for distributing its volume. So an attempt was made to educate the public into buying early and shipping early.

The fear of the merchant is not so much that his sales will not reach the hoped-for peak as that his future will be jeopardized. There is nothing that so disrupts a carefully-built organization as the overstrain of the two or three days—and nights—of hurried and hurried labor before Christmas. Clerks break down; some of them leave; others are not fit again for some time, and meanwhile system goes to the dogs and the sales-machine has to be rebuilt. Customers, too, offended by some frazzled employee, get sore and vow never to trade there again. So the merchant, desiring to serve his public well, asks the public to help him to do so by distributing Christmas buying over as long a period as possible.

So it behooves the public, since it wants good service, to remember that the chief element in that service is the human element and that the human machine break under strain just like any piece of machinery. And because there is a human element involved, and because Christmas is a time for special charity to all humans it is only reasonable that shoppers and shippers be considerate of the store clerk, the postal employee and the servants of the express companies and railroads. Blue Blood And Red

by ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

CHAPTER XLIX.

IT WAS a new lease on life—the welcome, thrilling sound of Marian's voice on the wire. However hopeless the future, nothing could take away from Eddie these isolated moments of joy. Out of a universe dull with ennui, out of a life of monotony, he had a glimpse of her personality, diluted in distance, but potent enough to send his heart beating faster.

Even though the dear voice came to him nervous and disturbed, he imagined it carried some hidden tenderness. "Father just came home—about his conversation with you." He knew that she was aware of her father's ban upon him. Doubtless, Mr. Thorndike had warned her, too, to have nothing further to do with him. It gave him a throbbing satisfaction to know that Marian, even so, cared enough to call him up in defiance of the edict that separated them. "Did he tell you everything?" "Yes. I'm so sorry—it's terrible."

Their conversation, he realized, must necessarily be guarded, because of the party line telephone system. There was no telling how many listening ears might be on the wire—but perhaps he might express himself so as to render anything overheard quite harmless. There was the chance that no one was over hearing them, but the possibility stifled expression.

The things that Eddie and Marian had to say were too poignant to be spoken for other people, perchance, to hear. Yet, there was so much that had to be said. "I'm leaving," he told her, reluctantly. "I'm called away—on business." He hoped desperately that she would understand what he really meant. "It seems the only thing to do," "Do you mind if I write you from wherever I'm going?" He could feel the strain of her silence before she answered him. Her words seemed to tremble.

"Yes, write."

"I won't be able to see you before I go."

"I'm afraid not."

"I suppose this is goodbye?"

"Her voice was faint."

"Yes."

"Goodbye, then."

"Goodbye."

He held the receiver to his ear, still waiting for the click that would tell when the connection was broken. With each possible fragment of a second he wanted to pro-

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Bauhan motored to Athens Sunday and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Ural Westfall. Mrs. Westfall was Miss Sarah Neff of this place. The financial stewards met Monday evening at the home of Mr. A. M. Daugherty to make arrangements for the every-member canvass for the M. E. church budget. Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Mr. David Musselman Jr., spent the week-end with Mr. James Childers in Canada. Mr. Childers is a contractor on the Welland canal.

The Men's Bible class are making arrangements for their annual long this most fragile of all bonds between them.

The seconds stretched out and repeated themselves, but there was no sound of a receiver going up at the other end.

"Are you still there?" he asked, hungrily.

"Yes."

The silence hung between them with painful intensity. What more could they say—what more could they do? Yet, neither had the power to break the connection.

After a time, Eddie spoke softly, almost a whisper.

"It's brutal to part this way."

After a protracted spell Marian whispered:

"Yes."

During those hours, scarcely acknowledged, stirred within him.

"Would a—could we see each other—"

He waited, tense with uncertainty, for her to answer while the great old clock in the hall ticked in silence.

When she spoke her voice was muffled but hasty with quick decision.

"Down where our lane runs into the main road... in an hour."

No hesitancy now in hanging up the receiver—a swirl of his heart spread through his whole being with an agonizing rush.

Nothing mattered now—he was going to see her. Everything else in life was uncertain, but this glorious fact revolved around him and through him with the sensation of music and color alike.

In the face of defeat he had been able to snatch one beautiful banner from the grasp of misfortune... was able to wave it defiantly aloft.

He stepped out on the veranda and filled his lungs with the warm perfume of the night.

In the east, a little to the north, a great orange disc that was the moon lifted its arched above the dark line of pines. There flittered through him all of the strange, bewitching glamour of youth and love, of sorrow and hope, till the blood in his veins ran cold and his brain trembled with excitement.

In his buggy he drove as far as Locust Grove and hitched his horse behind a screen of trees; then he went aloft. His idea of time was highly inaccurate and he was, at least, 30 minutes too soon. Even so, it was after 9 o'clock.

Now, or presently, Marian's parents would be preparing to retire for the night.

Her house stood on a eighth of a mile back from the road and he could see one dim light that signified, perhaps, her room.

Maybe she had told them—she was going to bed early and the light was burning as a beacon to his hopes. In any case, he knew she would slip away to meet him. So secure was he in this thought that he suffered not at all from impatience.

Nothing on earth—nothing could prevent Marian from meeting him.

As Eddie waited in the moonlight for Marian, a buoyancy grew upon him and everything in his world seemed to be floating and swimming in a delicious, gold feeling of life.

The truth was, his state was no more abnormal than the universal delicious madness that afflicts all young men in love.

Yet, as he sat down upon a log opposite her gate, it seemed to him he was reclining upon some incredibly luxurious royal couch; the whole world swept out before him like a gorgeous roll of tapestry for his approval—the conviction was borne upon him that he occupied a sweet and exalted dominion over all his fellow men.

So deliciously prevailing was this sense of power that he forgot his black despair and truly considered himself the luckiest young man on earth.

He alone was waiting for Marian.

She had chosen him for this secret tryst out of the unnumbered multitudes that swarmed the face of the earth.

His eyes were bright, his mouth was dry, but he was omnipotent in his powers.

Had he chosen, his voice could have duplicated the golden tones of Caruso; no expression of art was beyond him. If called upon he could have disposed of a Dempsy or a Tunney with nonchalant ease.

For once in his life—perhaps the last time—Eddie Regan succumbed with the madness of the gods and his head reeled with their ambrosia.

Even when he saw Marian's form, a fitting bit of white, stealing toward him down the moonlight lane, he was not, at once, brought back to reality.

He rose and waited for her and the dusty road beneath his feet was sheer velvet.

Not until she was close upon him and he saw her face, pale and strained, did the spell break.

Then, in a blinding flash, reality smote him, and he shuddered with the unhappiness over the tragedy—that was, actually, his portion.

This was their last time together.

DR. COPELAND SAYS— WATER ESSENTIAL TO BABY'S GOOD HEALTH

Never Fear Giving Infant Too Much Drinking Water, Says Dr. Copeland, in Advising Mothers of Its Value in Aiding Elimination.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

MANY mothers, especially young mothers, seem to be quite at a loss what to do when the baby becomes constipated. Yet this is one of the most frequent disturbances of infants and young children, and its management should be understood.

If the baby is a nursing baby, the symptom is likely to be due to the mother's own condition and especially to her diet. The young mother eats heartily of milk-producing foods in order to assure an abundant supply of nourishment for the child. This change from her accustomed diet may result in constipation for the mother. This in turn causes constipation in the baby. There is no doubt of the relationship.

If this is the cause of baby's trouble, the mother is called upon to rearrange her own diet. During warm weather it must include for the mother plenty of fresh milk and eggs, fresh green vegetables and fresh and stewed fruits. She should drink water abundantly between meals. A calm and even state of mind will aid the health, promote the digestion and, thus, will do much to prevent conditions which cause constipation.

From the first few weeks of its life, the baby should be given orange juice. It makes no difference whether it is a nursing or a bottle-fed baby. Begin with one teaspoonful of the strained juice, giving this amount before the first feeding each day. As the baby grows older, gradually increase the quantity until at one year of age the child is taking the juice of half an orange every day.

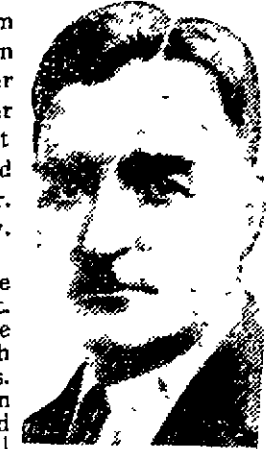

Bottle-fed babies suffer more from constipation than nursing babies. In such cases it is nearly always the formula which is at fault. Consult your doctor who will modify the baby's formula.

Constipation in babies is sometimes due to the lack of sufficient drinking water. They must take an abundance of fluid to dissolve the waste products and to carry them away from the body.

Don't be afraid of giving a baby too much water. It is necessary to use health and happiness. Try giving it frequent drinks of water that has been boiled and cooled. Even colic will sometimes disappear if a little warm water is given, and many a crying baby has been made happy by a drink of water.

When the baby is old enough to hold on a commode much can be accomplished in the way of establishing regular bowel movements by this method. Have a stated time each day, preferably just before the child's bath, for this discipline. For the first few days suppositories of glycerine may be used to start the movement but the should not be continued.

From the time the child begins to take cereals and other foods usually at about eight months his diet may

Letters To Editor

THE TAX AMENDMENT

Editor, The Herald—

Put enough money back of almost any cause and people can be made to believe almost anything.

Go over the list of endorers of the amendment and practically all are salaried men or men of large incomes whose real estate taxes are no care to them. I have heard more than one such say that real estate taxes are not high. Eight or nine years ago I discussed this question with a man who was a candidate in Franklin-co. for the legislature and in favor of this amendment. His argument was the same then as now that intangibles can not be put on the tax duplicate. When two things were pointed out to him the legislature could do to accomplish it and he had to admit it would work he turned to me and said "It is none of your business whether I pay my taxes or not."

Some try to justify the refusal of people to list intangibles on the ground that the taxes would be confiscatory. That is the argument. Either intangibles can not be taxed or if they could be they ought not to be. That is the argument of the man on a salary or the man with money.

Note the misrepresentation in the advertising. "Tax Limitation." Can any one name the limit to taxes on farms and homes under the proposed amendment? There is no limit. The state could pave and light the public highways and assess the tax against land and homes. The state could build any kind of public building and land and homes have it to pay just as the legislature at the last session levied six-tenths of a mill against property according to value to pay for the new office building now being planned and built.

The fairness of the uniform rule as we have it has never before been questioned. Before the claim has been made that we can not rule ourselves justly. Now the advocates of the amendment are making bold to say that it is not fair to tax a man with money, stocks or bonds. They say that intangibles can not be taxed or if they can be they ought not to be on the ground that it would be confiscatory. That is the argument of the man with money or on a salary. These are the people who are back of the amendment with plenty of money for publicity purposes. If they really want to limit taxes on land and homes they would gladly approve this idea. Land and buildings thereon shall be taxed for school purposes only and the rate on true value in money shall never exceed five mills.

The purpose of the new amendment is more taxes more easily secured. Notice that a bare majority may vote more taxes, whereas it was once a two-third vote, then fifty-five percent that was necessary to vote extra taxes.

Note also that Senator Bender

of Cleveland, has already enough signers to an amendment to be voted on which will give cities full control of the legislature and he was persuaded to hold until next year his amendment, so that this tax raising amendment will carry.

When the cities and representatives of wealth have the say about taxes, and can do as they please, who will be favored and who will pay the bills?

What is pinching common labor and crushing agriculture while corporations and their officers, employees and stock holders are extremely prosperous? Today's paper stated that U. S. steel has a net profit of $15.82 per share for nine months. We know too that last year they paid a hundred percent stock dividend. General Motors has declared unheard of dividends and General Motors does not manufacture a dollar's worth of automobiles. Stewart of the Standard Oil has retired on a pension of $50,000 per year. What must his salary have been? We know too that billions of dollars of money have gone from legitimate business to New York for speculative purposes, so that local banks and local business over the country have been hampered while men of wealth have been riotous. When a few corporations are taking all the profits, then is nothing left for the people who cannot help themselves.

It is the same class of people who want unlimited control of taxes, and they now have people ready to hand it over to them.

HAVE A HEART

There are not so many shopping days before Christmas as there were when first you were asked to do your Christmas buying early, and there is no hope that the number is going to increase between now and midnight of the twenty-fourth. Nor will prices be reduced; nor will the quality of the goods now on the shelves increase. So why linger and delay?

Perhaps there are those who believe that "Do your Christmas shopping early" is a slogan devised by merchants who thought they would sell more goods if people bought early, and then took thought and discovered that there was more buying they ought to do. But while that doubtless occurred to the merchants, it was not by any means the controlling motive that inspired the shop-early propaganda which greets us annually.

The fact is, the request for early Christmas shopping came, first, chiefly from the postoffices, the express companies, the railroads and the sales and delivery people, all of whom found themselves swamped by a tidal wave that hit them suddenly and left them devastated. Some way had to be found for controlling this tide, for distributing its volume. So an attempt was made to educate the public into buying early and shipping early.

The fear of the merchant is not so much that his sales will not reach the hoped-for peak as that his future will be jeopardized. There is nothing that so disrupts a carefully-built organization as the overstrain of the two or three days—and nights—of hurried and hurried labor before Christmas. Clerks break down; some of them leave; others are not fit again for some time, and meanwhile system goes to the dogs and the sales-machine has to be rebuilt. Customers, too, offended by some frazzled employee, get sore and vow never to trade there again. So the merchant, desiring to serve his public well, asks the public to help him to do so by distributing Christmas buying over as long a period as possible.

So it behooves the public, since it wants good service, to remember that the chief element in that service is the human element and that the human machine break undue strain just like any piece of machinery. And because there is a human element involved, and because Christmas is a time for special charity to all humans it is only reasonable that shoppers and shippers be considerate of the store clerk, the postal employee and the servants of the express companies and railroads. They want to enjoy Christmas, too. Why make the Yuletide hateful to them? Have a heart. Do your Christmas shopping early.

THE TAX AMENDMENT

Editor, The Herald:

Put enough money back of almost any cause and people can be made to believe almost anything.

Go over the list of endorsers of the amendment and practically all are salaried men or men of large incomes whose real estate taxes are no care to them. I have heard more than one such say that real estate taxes are not high. Eight or nine years ago I discussed this question with a man who was a candidate in Franklin Co. for the legislature and in favor of this amendment. His argument was the same then as now that intangibles can not be put on the tax duplicate. When two things were pointed out to him the legislature could do to accomplish it and he had to admit it would work he turned to me and said: "It is none of your business whether I pay my taxes or not."

Some try to justify the refusal of people to list intangibles on the ground that the taxes would be confiscatory. That is the argument. Either intangibles can not be taxed or if they could they are ought not to be. That is the argument of the man on a salary or the man with money.

Note the misrepresentation in the advertising. "Tax Limitation" can any one name the limit to taxes on farms and homes under the proposed amendment? There is no limit. The state could pave and light the public highways and assess the tax against land and homes. The state could build any kind of public building and land and homes have to pay just as the legislature at the last session levied six-tenths of a mill against property according to value to pay for the new office building now being planned and built.

The fairness of the uniform rule as we have it has never before been questioned. Before the claim has been made that we can not rule ourselves justly. Now the advocates of the amendment are making bold to say that it is not fair to tax a man with money, stocks or bonds. They say that intangibles can not be taxed or if they can be they ought not to be on the ground that it would be confiscatory. That is the argument of the man with money or on a salary. Those are the people who are back of the amendment for public purposes. If they really want to limit taxes on land and homes they would gladly approve this idea—Land and buildings thereon shall be taxed for school purposes only and the rate on true value in money shall never exceed five mills.

The purpose of the new amendment is more taxes more easily secured. Notice that a bare majority may vote more taxes, whereas it was once a two-third vote, then fifty-five percent that was necessary to vote extra taxes.

Note also that Senator Bender

of Cleveland, has already enough signers to an amendment to be voted on which will give cities full control of the legislature and he was persuaded to hold until next year his amendment, so that this tax raising amendment will carry.

When the cities and representatives of wealth have the say about taxes, and can do as they please, who will be favored and who will pay the bills?

What is pinching common labor and crushing agriculture while corporations and their officers, employees and stock holders are extremely prosperous? Today's paper stated that U. S. steel has a net profit of $15.82 per share for nine months. We know too that last year they paid a hundred percent stock dividend. General Motors has declared unheard of dividends and General Motors does not manufacture a dollar's worth of automobiles. Stewart of the Standard Oil has retired on a pension of $50,000 per year. What must his salary have been? We know too that billions of dollars of money have gone from legitimate business to New York for speculative purposes, so that local banks and local business over the country have been hampered while men of wealth have been ritous.

When a few corporations are taking all the profits, then is nothing left for the people who cannot help themselves.

It is the same class of people who want unlimited control of taxes, and they now have people ready to hand it over to them.

W. C. Dyer.

After moving to Columbus she became a member of the W. C. T. U. and Oakwood M. E. church and was a faithful member up until the time of her sickness. She was also member of Fairview U. B. church at her former home.

Rev. Alexander of Columbus held short services at her home before taking Mrs. Bolender to Fairfield-co, where services were held in the Fairview U. B. church by her former pastor, P. E. Master of the Angels

There was once a sculptor who lived so long ago that every one has forgotten his name, but he would not mind, for artists and critics have given him a new one; he is the Master of the Angels. He had a magic gift for turning dead stone into gracious faces and fluttering wings, and critics say his angels are different from all others.

The angels in the central and southern doorways of the west portal of Chartres cathedral, which dates from the middle of the Twelfth century, are said to be his work.

OPEN WAR AGAINST TAX BOOTLEGGER

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 1.—(IN S)—A statewide war against a ruse whereby some farmers allegedly escape payment of the state gasoline tax to be waged by the Ohio Tax Commission.

Under the Buckeye State laws, the farmers can demand a rebate of their gasoline tax on the fuel they use in their tractors and other farm implements, excluding the automobile.

The tax commission alleges that some of the farmers say they are using the gasoline for their tractors, when, in reality, they are using it in their automobiles.

The fight against this practice was started today. A Lorain farmer was cited to appear before the tax commission to explain his demand for a rebate of $24 on 700 gallons of gasoline. Members of the commission would not disclose the name of the alleged "tax-dodger," pointing out that the offense was a minor one. They issued a warning, however, that prosecutions will be started if the practice is not stopped.

BREAK ALL WOOL MARKET RECORDS

Approximately 3,750,000 pounds of wool had been marketed through the Columbus and Wheeling warehouses of the Ohio Wool Growers' Cooperative Association this year up to October 23, according to word received by Pickaway-Co. Farm Bureau officers.

This is almost a million pounds more than the total volume for 1928, which was 2,850,000 pounds. There is a splendid chance for Ohio to be one of the leading wool states in volume marketed this year, Ohio wool men say. In 1928 associations in Oregon, Ohio, Montana and Colorado led in that respect, and with Ohio's volume so greatly increased she should be one of the 1929 leaders.

Mrs. Freda Goeller is visiting relatives in Madison, Ind.

OPEN WAR AGAINST TAX BOOTLEGGERS

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 1—(IN S)—A statewide war against a ruse whereby some farmers allegedly escape payment of the state gasoline tax to be waged by the Ohio Tax Commission.

Under the Buckeye State laws, the farmers can demand a rebate of their gasoline tax on the fuel they use in their tractors and other farm implements, excluding the automobile.

The tax commission alleges that some of the farmers say they are using the gasoline for their tractors, when, in reality, they are using it in their automobiles.

The fight against this practice was started today.

A Lorain farmer was cited to appear before the tax commission to explain his demand for a rebate of $24 on 700 gallons of gasoline. Members of the commission would not disclose the name of the alleged "tax-dodger," pointing out that the offense was a minor one.

They issued a warning, however, that prosecutions will be started if the practice is not stopped.

Harold Davis, son of Sheriff and Mrs. Frank Davis is reported in good condition after undergoing a tonsil operation at White Cross hospital Columbus, Thursday.

BREAK ALL WOOL MARKET RECORDS

Approximately 3,750,000 pounds of wool had been marketed through the Columbus and Wheeling warehouses of the Ohio Wool Growers' Cooperative Association this year up to October 23, according to word received by Pickaway-Co. Farm Bureau officers.

This is almost a million pounds more than the total volume for 1928, which was 2,950,000 pounds.

There is a splendid chance for Ohio to be one of the leading wool states in volume marketed this year, Ohio wool men say. In 1928 associations in Oregon, Ohio, Montana and Colorado led in that respect, and with Ohio's volume so greatly increased she should be one of the 1929 leaders.

Mrs. Freda Goeller is visiting relatives in Madison, Ind.

Mrs. Phil Beery, who fell on Friday of the Pumpkin Show at the home of her mother, Mrs. Ella LaMaster in E. Franklin-st. injuring her right knee again, is somewhat improved.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Following is a letter received at The Herald office in regard to the $40,000 bond issue in Wayne township rural school district. The letter was sent by J. L. Clifton, clerk of the township board.

The letter:
My dear Mr. Peck:

In connection with the survey of school building conditions and needs in Pickaway County, I am writing you relative to the $40,000 bond issue being submitted to the voters of Wayne Rural School District at the November, 1929, election. After carefully considering your school situation I am submitting certain facts many of which are already known to your board and the conclusions reached by the State Department. These are as follows:

1. Wayne Rural School District has a tax duplicate of $1,978,930, a school tax rate of 6.15 mills, a total tax rate of 12.3

mills and no outstanding bonds.

2. Your present enumeration is 146 with an enrollment of from 120 to 125 pupils.

3. These pupils are housed in a two room brick building at Westfall. The first story of which was erected in 1860 and added to in 1873 and a one room building erected in 1872.

4. The Westfall building is 4.8 miles from the Scioto bridge by way of the Canal Road, 4.9 miles from the centralized school in Union Township, Ross County on State Route 104, and 5.7 miles to the centralized school in Jackson district.

5. The distance from the Westfall school to the nearest transportation route in Deer Creek District is 3.3 miles while that of the one room is 2.2 miles.

6. The northeast corner of the district joins the Circleville School District and at one time, a petition was circulated to transfer a part of this territory to the Circleville School District.

7. Good roads, passable under all weather conditions offer transportation outlets north, south and west.

8. The amount of bonds to be submitted is in our judgment considerably in excess of that actually needed to provide satisfactory accommodations for all pupils in the district. On the basis of the foregoing facts our conclusions are as follows:

1. That the bond issue to be submitted is from $10,000 to $15,000 in excess of that needed for the housing of the children in the district.

2. That in view of the roads, distances from already organized schools in which all the pupils in the district could be cared for, the State Department sees no justification for any building program in the Wayne School District.

Very truly yours,
J. L. CLIFTON,
Director of Education.

Odd Way Advertises Town
A novel method of obtaining funds to advertise their town has been adopted by the people of Barre, Vermont. Scores of women canvassers are making a house-to-house canvass seeking donations from householders. That the publicity campaign is getting results is indicated by the fact that in one day a hundred applications for guide books of the town were received.

“KONJOLA ONLY MEDICINE THAT GAVE RELIEF”

Lady Says Her Health Is Greatly Improved After Illness of Six Months.

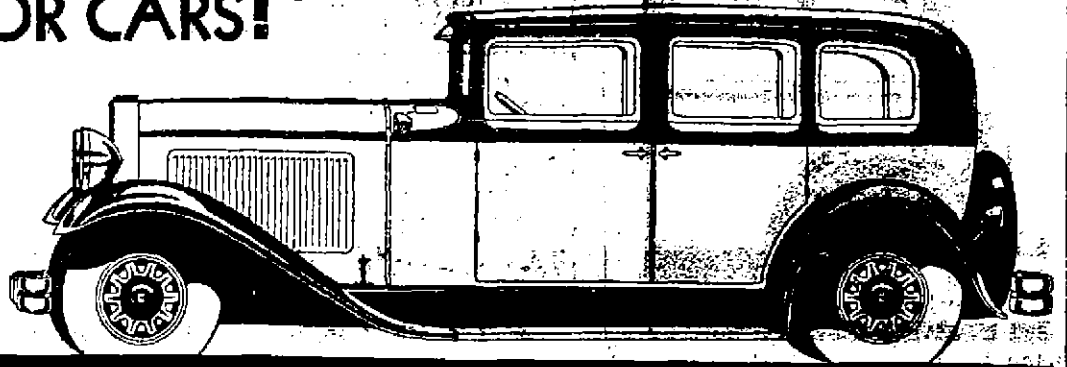

MRS. MARIE HOLBROOK
“I had been ailing for about six months,” said Mrs. Marie Holbrook, 324 Elberston avenue, Cincinnati, Ohio. “My stomach was disordered. No matter what I ate, my food did not digest properly. Heart palpitation followed my meals, due to the gas which formed in my stomach. My liver, too, was not in good condition. I was troubled all the time with constipation. I became weak and run-down.”

Konjola was recommended and I decided to try it. I can sincerely endorse this medicine, because it has made me feel better in every way. My appetite is better, indigestion and gas formation have been relieved and I am getting back my lost weight. My liver is in better condition and constipation is a thing of the past. I sleep better at night and feel better every day. Konjola is the only medicine that gave me relief, and I give this new medicine all the credit for my new health.”

Konjola is sold in Circleville at Hamilton & Ryan's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

COMPLICATION OF AILMENTS YIELDS QUICKLY TO HOYT'S

"Hoyt's Compound Has No Equal," Declares Mr. James Trimble of Circleville, Ohio.

Mr. James Trimble, a well known resident of Circleville, Ohio, is now adding his good name to the EVER GROWING list of local residents of this locality who are publicly endorsing Hoyt's Compound which is the famous prescription containing some of nature's finest health restoring roots and herbs which is now being introduced and explained every day here in this city at Wilder's drug store.

Mr. Trimble is 85 years of age and is a LIFE LONG resident of this locality. His public statement in which he praises Hoyt's Compound and urges others who are in ill health to get it and take it follows:

"I had gotten to be a victim of a complication of ailments during the past several years which included constipation, and stomach trouble," declared Mr. Trimble. "This bowel congestion required that I take laxatives continually in order to get a regular bowel movement, and so much gas would form after meals that I could hardly get my breath and my heart would palpitate. Was a great victim of kidney and bladder trouble, too, and my rest was broken as many as twelve times during a single night so that I felt terrible when morning came. Finally I developed rheumatism in my limbs which were so stiff that I could hardly get around and words cannot express the misery which I endured. All medicines and medical aids which I tried failed to help me at all until just recently when I started a Hoyt treatment.

"Hoyt's quickly struck the fatal blow to my health troubles and I felt 100% better after completing a short treatment of this great medicine. The kidney and bladder trouble has vanished and I can go to bed now and rest all night long without being awakened once. The rheumatism has been driven right out of my body and my limbs are not stiff and sore so that I can get around with ease. In my conception Hoyt's Compound HAS NO EQUAL in the realm of medicines and I am more than glad to recommend it to others who are suffering. A treatment of this great medicine will convince them that it is DIFFERENT than other medicines and that it does more than is claimed for it."

Hoyt's Compound is sold in Circleville at Wilder's drug store, and by all the leading druggists in surrounding towns.—Adv.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

"Whispering Winds," a triangle drama told against the rugged background of the Maine seacoast is the dialogue feature showing today and Saturday at the Cliftona theatre. This Tiffany-Stahl Tiffany Tone production features Patsy Ruth Miller, Malcolm McGregor and Eve Southern.

The story by Jean Plannette is of two women who loved the same man and of a man who loved them both, but each one differently. Eve was "that Benton girl" to Jim's mother and to most of the others in the village, for she lived in a shack on the water's edge with her shiftless father and Eve must be shiftless, too, for all she did was mend the fishing nets and sing. But to Jim she was the end of all his dreams while Dora was just a nice, sweet kid.

Then Eve's gorgeous voice was heard by some New York show folks, who offered her a career—and off Eve went in search of fame, leaving a letter asking her lover to wait for her. But the letter never reached Jim until after he had solemnly promised to love, honor and protect Dora in a marriage that was more a gesture of wounded pride than a real desire to make Dora his wife.

The story of their marriage and the return of Eve is unfolded in "Whispering Winds," directed by James Flood, and with dialogue, singing and music score synchronized by RCA Photophone.

AT THE MET

William Powell always speaks of his film characterizations in the third person.

He regards his roles as utterly detached from himself as if they were played by another actor.

For example in discussing his role of Philo Vance in "The Greene Murder Case," which is at the Met theatre on Friday, Powell talks in this view:

"Smooth fellow. Nice to be as intelligent as Vance, eh? But with all his suave, sophisticated, cynical exterior, he has a warm heart. He feels a real sympathy for those bereft by the murders he so deftly solves. And though he chides Sergeant Heath a bit, he never turns the full force of his satirical wit on him. He really loves the old boy.

"Yes, you like Philo Vance when you get to know him. We are great friends."

This detached manner is absolutely sincere with Powell. Those in the profession call him a "depth actor," because he never essays a role until he has studied the part so thoroughly that he has absorbed every characteristic of the type.

In "The Greene Murder Case" he did not have to prepare himself for the role, since he had established the character of Philo Vance in his first Van Dine film, "The Canary Murder Case."

Character

It is not what a man gets, but what a man is, that he should think of. He should first think of his character, and then of his condition. He that has character need have no fear of his condition. Character will draw condition after it.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Sneezing

It is not "bad manners" to sneeze. Sneezing is a natural act and should not be suppressed. It expels dust and other irritating substances which otherwise would enter the body and possibly cause illness. But do not sneeze outside your handkerchief.

Have you felt the thrill of its six-cylinder performance—so smooth, quiet and vibrationless that you almost forget there's a motor?

Have you known the satisfaction of its six-cylinder reserve power—ready to shoot you ahead at the traffic light, to carry you over the steepest hills, or to speed you along the highway?

And do you know that anyone who can afford any car can own a Chevrolet Six?

If you have never driven a six-cylinder car, it is impossible for you to form any idea of Chevrolet performance from your imagination alone.

Smoothness! No rumble in the body—no tremble in the steering wheel—no vibration to loosen windows and doors!

Flexibility! Power that flows in a silken stream—and never a trace of "lugging"!

Quiet! Hardly a whisper from the motor. You can drive it for hours without the slightest noise fatigue! But why try to tell you the story when only a ride can give you the facts? Come in. There's a car waiting for you . . . Now!

THAT it takes organized effort to build a city.

THAT every citizen should be vitally interested in the civic and business affairs of the home city.

THAT the business men are community leaders.

THAT their judgment should never be biased or warped by any disturbing influence. They should co-operate in a way that will move their city ahead faster on the road of progress.

THAT business interests should be open and above board and back every worthy project for the home city.

THAT they should be able to speak from knowledge and experience as to what is best for the home city.

THAT they should co-operate together to the end that the home city will be a busier and better city.

THAT every citizen should back them loyally and in this way help local business, for as business grows so will the city grow.

It's Your City—Its Success Means Your Success. Co-operate!

"At Home After November first=="

Each year thousands upon thousands of those neat, white envelopes find their way through the mails. You know what they are before you open them—an inner envelope, and a trim card—"Mr. and Mrs. So-and-so announce the marriage of their daughter"—and another card—"At home after November 1st, at 101 Moonlight Ave."

Every one means a new home initiated, a new family begun—a new set of problems faced by "two-who-are-one."

They've many a question to settle, and many a thing to buy. Furniture kitchenware, linen and china—silverware, cereals, meat and potatoes—Familiar names will pass their lips as they buy—easily, naturally. Advertised products, quality merchandise—reliable—dependable. They've known them all their lives. But now they'll begin to read the advertisements in earnest—comparing values, budgeting expenses, choosing this, rejecting that, reserving the other till hubby gets his raise. They'll manage, all right—with the advertisements to help them.

Make it a habit to read the advertisements regularly. The days of helter-skelter selection and blindfolded buying are over. For the sake of time, economy and convenience, have your mind made up when you start out to buy.

REGULAR READING OF THE ADVERTISEMENTS IS ONE OF THE ESSENTIALS OF GOOD HOUSEKEEPING.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Following is a letter received at The Herald office in regard to the $40,000 bond issue in Wayne township rural school district. The letter was sent by J. L. Clifton, director of education to Ward H. Beck, clerk of the township board.

The letter:
My dear Mr. Beck:
In connection with the survey of school building conditions and needs in Pickaway County, I am writing you relative to the $40,000 bond issue being submitted to the voters of Wayne Rural School District at the November, 1929, election. After carefully considering your school situation I am submitting certain facts many of which are already known to your board and the conclusions reached by the State Department. These are as follows:

1. Wayne Rural School District has a tax duplicate of $1,978,930, a school tax rate of 6.15 mills, a total tax rate of 12.8

mills and no outstanding bonds.
2. Your present enumeration is 146 with an enrollment of from 120 to 125 pupils.
3. These pupils are housed in a two room brick building at Westfall. The first story of which was erected in 1860 and added to in 1873 and a one room building erected in 1872.

4. The Westfall building is 4.8 miles from the Scioto bridge by way of the Canal Road, 4.9 miles from the centralized school in Union Township, Ross County on State Route 104, and 5.7 miles to the centralized school in Jackson district.

5. The distance from the Westfall school to the nearest transportation route in Deer Creek District is 3.3 miles while that of the one room is 2.2 miles.

6. The northeast corner of the district joins the Circleville School District and at one time a petition was circulated to transfer a part of this territory to the Circleville School District.

7. Good roads, passable under all weather conditions offer transportation outlets north, south and west.

8. The amount of bonds to be submitted is in our judgment considerably in excess of that actually needed to provide satisfactory accommodations for all pupils in the district. On the basis of the foregoing facts our conclusions are as follows:

1. That the bond issue to be submitted is from $10,000 to $15,000 in excess of that needed for the housing of the children in the district.

2. That in view of the roads, distances from already organized schools in which all the pupils in the district could be cared for, the State Department sees no justification for any building program in the Wayne School District.

Very truly yours,
J. L. CLIFTON,
Director of Education.

GAVE RELIEF"

Lady Says Her Health Is Greatly Improved After Illness of Six Months.

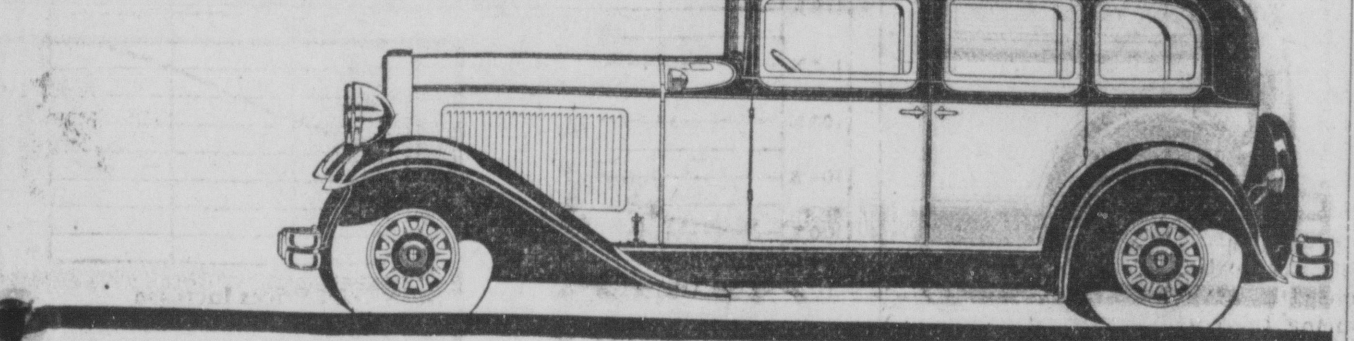

MRS. MARIE HOLBROOK.
"I had been ailing for about six months," said Mrs. Marie Holbrook, 824 Elberson avenue, Cincinnati, Ohio. "My stomach was disordered. No matter what I ate, my food did not digest properly. Heart palpitation followed my meals, due to the gas which formed in my stomach. My liver, too, was not in good condition. I was troubled all the time with constipation. I became weak and run-down."

"Konjola was recommended and I decided to try it. I can sincerely endorse this medicine, because it has made me feel better in every way. My appetite is better, indigestion and gas formation have been relieved and I am getting back my lost weight. My liver is in better condition and constipation is a thing of the past. I sleep better at night and feel better every day. Konjola is the only medicine that gave me relief, and I give this new medicine all the credit for my new health."

Konjola is sold in Circleville at Hamilton & Ryan's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

This week a special survey is being made to determine how many County High School Annuals our pupils and patrons will subscribe for. Such an annual will be published provided the survey indicates that enough orders can be secured to meet the cost of publication. A county annual will enable the members of each school community to learn something of the personnel and activities of the other schools of our county. A better understanding and mutual good will are certain to result.

Our school always has winners in the 4-H clubs exhibit, and this year was no exception. Mary and Elizabeth Dumm placed third and fifth in the Food club exhibit, and Marvin Hampshire placed second with his pig. Furthermore, our girls' club won the banner for the best secretary's book, including attendance and percentage of completion. Helen Rhoads was the efficient secretary.

Basketball season is near at hand. Practice started this week. Only pupils whose grades are up and whose conduct is satisfactory are permitted to play. School work comes first and those who do their work well are permitted to play ball.

Our Athletic association has re-organized as follows:

President, Carl Anderson; vice president, Ansel Estell; secretary, Marvin Hampshire; treasurer, Charles Boggs; board of control, Harold Shaner, Helen Seymour, and Mr. Meyer.

The president and secretary are ex-officio members of this board.

Basketball season is here! Rah! Rah!

Up to the present time Vernon Tarbill, Oakley Turner, Willis Cleary, Glen Farmer, Carroll Hughes, Forrest Morris, Wendell Tarbill and John Kirk have turned in their physician's and parents' permits. Only four girls have turned in their permits so far. There are several out to be turned in. We are not quite sure there will be enough to have a team.

Kathryn Kirk has been excused this week. She won first prize on her aegle food cake in 4-H work at the Pumpkin Show. This entitled her to a trip to Columbus with all expenses paid for a week. Kathryn is a member of the Perry's Better Best Food club. Wish we could have had a piece of that cake.

Perry Hi's representatives in the All State chorus were chosen. This chorus is assembled at Columbus during Christmas vacation. They furnish music for the teacher's convention given at that time. This means hard work for the representatives, who are Lela Tarbill, Kathryn Kirk, Oakley Turner and Carroll Hughes.

Girls might wear paint, but at least they don't wear varnish as some of the boys did in manual training last week. They varnished the screens for the auditorium windows at least that's what they said, but from appearances we think most of the varnish was left on them. The blackboards are also being repainted. New light protectors are being put up, and the new floor has been lined off again for basketball.

A new pennant was put up in the assembly hall Monday. This pennant was won by Perry-twp Livestock club at the Pumpkin Show in competition with other clubs from Pickaway-co. It was presented to the club leader, Mr. Glenn Speakman, Friday night by County Agent Lewis.

The following pupils received perfect grades in spelling for the week ending Oct. 25th.

"MY little son, Bobby, was troubled a lot with constipation," says Mrs. Rose Temple, 5883 Pearl Road, Cleveland. "He got very weak, run-down and underweight. I gave him California Fig Syrup, and in just a little while he was eating heartily and gaining. Now I'm proud as can be; he's so robust, bright and active."

Temporary relief should be far from the first consideration when a child shows by bad breath, coated tongue, biliousness, or a listless, weak condition, that he's constipated. Of course, the child's system needs a prompt cleansing. But the youngster's bowels also need toning and strengthening.

That's where California Fig Syrup does its best work. It helps strengthen the bowel muscles; gives tone to a weak stomach. That's why faulty digestion improves with its use; bowel movements become regular and remain so.

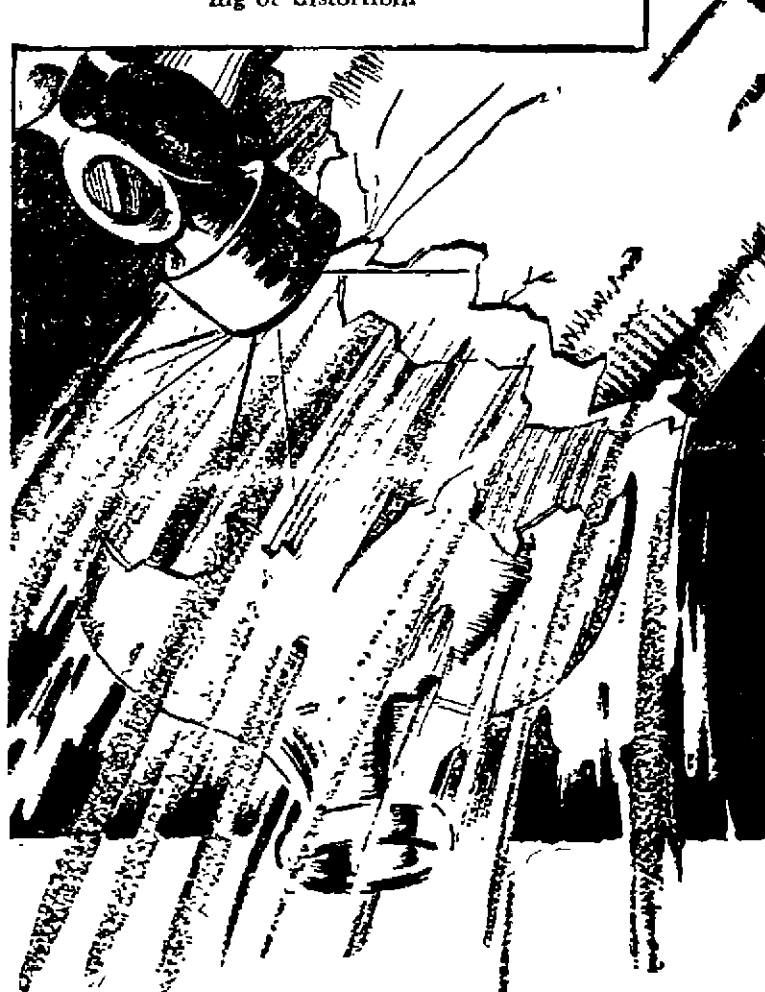

Every child loves its flavor; its cleansing action is prompt but gentle. A pure vegetable product; no danger of causing the laxative habit. It has full medical endorsement.

There are many imitations; but the word California marks the genuine.

MUHLBERG NEWS

Muhlberg-twp rads closed their very successful baseball season last Friday. They have lost but one game and by all probability this loss was due to ineligibility of one of our best players. Our athletic activities shall soon turn to basket ball.

A large crowd enjoyed the fun made at our school celebrating Hallowe'en in the form of a carnival. This was last Monday night.

A crowd of people who are supporters of the 4H club work met at the school Friday for an achievement program. The girls and boys were given great praise for their work under the direction of Miss Mary Mounts.

The Senior class has decided on the Baker Art Gallery for their class picture and Hur-Jones Co. for invitations. Beginning next year we have adopted a standard high school ring.

This week a special survey is being made to determine how many County High School Annuals our pupils and patrons will subscribe for. Such an annual will be published provided the survey indicates that enough orders can be secured to meet the cost of publication. A county annual will enable the members of each school community to learn something of the personnel and activities of the other schools of our county. A better understanding and mutual good will are certain to result.

As we are Qualified To Serve in our professional capacity, so is our Funeral Home fitted to serve as a place of reverent ceremony.

This publication will have about 200 pages and the price is to be only one dollar. All we need to assure its preparation and publication is sufficient subscribers to make it pay out.

Our school always has winners in the 4-H clubs exhibit, and this year was no exception. Mary and Elizabeth Dumm placed third and fifth in the Food club exhibit, and Marvin Hampshire placed second with his pig. Furthermore, our girls' club won the banner for the best secretary's book, including attendance and percentage of completion. Helen Rhoads was the efficient secretary.
